

Ronald J. Librizzi, DO
Chief, Maternal Fetal Medicine
Virtua Health System
Clinical Associate Professor, Thomas Jefferson University, School of Medicine

Dr. Ronald J. Librizzi is Chief, Maternal-Fetal Medicine, and Clinical Associate professor at Thomas Jefferson University School of Medicine, in Philadelphia, and Chief of Maternal Fetal Medicine for the Virtua Health System in New Jersey. Dr. Librizzi is also a licensed pilot.

Dr. Librizzi completed his undergraduate work at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia before studying medicine at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. He completed both his internship and residency at John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Stratford, New Jersey, and participated in a maternal-fetal Fellowship at Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia.

Dr. Librizzi is Chair of the American Osteopathic Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and a Past President of the American College of Osteopathic Obstetrics and Gynecology, the Southern New Jersey Perinatal Consortium and the New Jersey Obstetrical and Gynecological Society. He serves the State of New Jersey as a Commissioner of the New Jersey Mandated Health Care Advisory Commission.